

Jonathan Lipnick is an educator, tour guide and author focusing on the history of the religions in the Holy Land. He was born and raised in New York and arrived in Israel in 2002 after graduating from Indiana University, Bloomington. He earned master's degrees in religious studies at Hebrew University and at Harvard University and is currently completing his doctorate in religion at Harvard University specializing in early Christianity. A licensed tour guide through the Israel Ministry of Tourism, he heads of the Holy Land Studies division at the eTeacher Group, Ltd. He lives with his wife and three daughters in Jerusalem.